Cases of Interest our office is handling

A single mother involved in a hit-and-run accident suffers severe injuries. She was transported from the scene via EMS complaining of dizziness and neck and back pain. She now suffers from mood swings, memory loss and nightmares, which are typical in a traumatic brain injury. The passenger in the vehicle also suffers from severe injuries. He was unconscious for approximately 15-20 minutes after the impact and was rushed to the hospital where he spent several days in the intensive care unit. He now suffers from a broken neck and must wear a halo to support his neck while the fracture heals.

A cancer survivor suffered injuries after a driver who was talking on a cell phone caused an accident. She underwent several months of grueling physical therapy, which was ineffective, and now suffers from thoracic outlet syndrome and has decreased spinal fluid on her spinal column.

Congratulations to Steve and Glenna Hartman, First Winners of New "Good News, Good People" Contest!

The employees of the Charles E. Boyk Law Offices are sick of it! office to share the positive news stories of people in our very own community.

We're sick of all the bad news we hear about day in and day out, especially all the bad news concerning our home city of Toledo.

But rather than take the easy route and just sit back and complain, our firm has decided to take an active role in seeking out good news about good people. And with the help of the local media, we are going to make sure that these positive news stories are told every single month!

And so it is with great pride that the Charles E. Boyk Law Offices announces its new "Good News Good People" contest and also reveals the first winners: CBS News correspondent and Toledo native Steve Hartman and his mother, Glenna.

Steve was a natural front-runner to be the first-ever winner of the Good News Good People contest because of the inspirational stories that he regularly covers for CBS News. In fact, Steve's positive-news segments called "Everybody Has a Story" and "Assignment America" inspired our

L: Toledo natives Steve and Glenna Hartman

R: Steve Hartman

Since the beginning of his career, Steve Hartman has always enjoyed telling "feel-good" stories. While other reporters were clamoring for the "hard news" segments, Steve preferred the softer stories that focused on the positive.

Steve is probably best known for tossing a dart at a map, going to the city where the dart lands, and randomly choosing a name from the local phone book. Steve then visits the randomly chosen person and tells their story—whatever it may be—in a positive and interesting way.

"News is extremely important, but the downside is it presents a skewed vision of what our country and communities are like," Steve said. "What I do helps offset that. It's not all bad. Any town can be the best place in the world. It comes down to the people who live there."

Because of everything he has done to promote good news, we decided it was Steve's turn to have the spotlight. "Steve Hartman is a symbol that common sense and telling a good story can make you a huge success. He inspires me to look for the good in everyone,” said attorney Charles Boyk.

Behind every good person is a good family, and that is why Steve’s mother Glenna was chosen as his co-winner.

“Steve was a perfect child,” Glenna said. One of the most important ideals she wanted to instill in her children was the value of education. She did this by helping Steve and her other two sons pay for at least half of the boys’ schooling, while they paid the rest by working part-time jobs.

“The best thing you can buy for your kids is education,” she said.

Glenna still lives in Toledo and shares her son’s passion for seeking out good news. “There’s so much bad news out there. People always look for some good news in their lives,” she said.

As a reward, at Steve and Glenna’s request a $100 donation was made to Hospice of Northwest Ohio. We are privileged to have them as our first winners and are excited to share more stories like theirs.

“Good News, Good People” has the goal of rewarding people in the area who are going out of their way to do extraordinary things to make Toledo a better place to live. “We wanted to show that Toledo is not a miserable city like it’s been reported lately. It’s actually a city full of great people with great stories,” said attorney Charles Boyk.

Do you know someone who should win Good News Good People? Here’s how the contest works:

- Nominate anyone who has a great story to tell—the volunteer at the local food shelter, the teacher who stays late to help students with homework, the child who donated his or her allowance money to charity, or anyone else who makes Northwest Ohio a better place to live.
- On the first and third Monday of every month, the Charles E. Boyk Law Offices will review all the nominations and announce the newest winner. With the help of local media we will share the winner’s story with the community.
- Each winner will receive a customized prize pack valued at over $100. The winner will also receive a certificate commemorating their win.

To download a nomination form, read the stories of the winners, or just to get more information about the contest, visit www.GoodNewsGoodPeople.com.

Behind the Motivation for “Good News Good People”

By Attorney Charles E. Boyk

Our attitude in life determines our happiness and success. As a society, we are impressed by individuals who overcome adversity to fulfill their dreams and help other people.

The greatest storyteller of our generation is Steve Hartman of CBS News. Steve, a Toledo native, tells the “good news” stories that motivate this country to believe that anything is possible. His story, along with that of his mother Glenna, should motivate the city of Toledo to believe that we can overcome job loss, a struggling economy, and a less-than-stellar self image.

I am very proud to have been born and raised in Toledo. I have chosen to live in Northwest Ohio, to work here, and to have my children go to school here. The Toledo area is a fantastic place to raise a family, enjoy recreational activities, and experience cultural events.

The motivation behind Good News Good People is to tell the stories of Toledo natives doing great things. I am confident that the Toledo area will overcome its obstacles and reestablish itself as an extraordinary place to visit and live.

Local Business Spotlight

Piasecki Auto Service

In the current economy, it is a challenge for any business to stay afloat. But the pros at Piasecki Auto Service in Toledo have been in business for the past 75 years (since 1936), and they aren’t slowing down at all!

While Piasecki Auto Service started as a small gas station run by Emily Piasecki during the Great Depression, the company is now in its third generation of family owners and offers a huge range of auto care options to its customers.

Piasecki’s services include engine and transmission work, alignments, batteries, brakes, tires, full service towing, and many others.

For its towing services, the company specializes in accident recovery, long-distance, and load shift/load transfer jobs.

Attorney Charles Boyk, who met with the owners of Piasecki Auto Service after they started handing out Boyk Law Office accident kits, said the business is in good hands.

“They’re great at what they do, but even more than that, they’re good people. We are happy to do business with them,” he said.

Zandra Piasecki, secretary and wife of owner Kevin, said it’s important for people to remember they have options when they’re involved in an accident.

“You have the right to choose your towing company. If you don’t then law enforcement will choose for you. It will make your life a lot easier if you choose,” she said.

She also said that even though the economy is undeniably tough, Piasecki Auto Service isn’t going anywhere.

“You just have to keep plugging away and come up with new ideas,” she said.

Piasecki Auto Service is located at 5055 Dorr Street in Toledo. For more information about their services, call (419) 536-1342 or visit www.piaseckiautoservice.com.
