The device contains struts that expand inside the vein to prevent blood clots from entering the heart, lungs or vena cava. However, reports indicate that filters have a design defect that can cause them to break apart and migrate through the body. Lawsuits have been filed against manufacturers of IVC filters claiming that the devices are defective and that manufacturers intentionally decided not to disclose the dangers to the public.

Who may have a lawsuit? Anyone who is experiencing complications after having a small device implanted into their vein to treat blood clots.

How do I know if my problem was caused by an IVC filter? Let Boyk Law do the research for you. To speak with an attorney, call our office at 419-241-1395 or confidentially provide your information by visiting www.isitalawsuit.com.

CASES OF INTEREST: MAY 2018

Boyk Law Investigating Link Between Our Client’s Stroke & Her Shingles Vaccine
Doctors have told our client that she will never regain full use of her right side after suffering from a stroke less than four months after receiving the shingles vaccine. She was admitted to the hospital where she stayed for four days before being transferred to an in-patient rehab facility for another two weeks. She still faces permanent mobility issues and Boyk Law is working to prove that her injuries are a result of the vaccine so that we can hold the pharmaceutical company responsible for failing to warn of the immunization’s dangers.

Woman’s IVC Filter Migrates Within Body, Leaving Her Hospitalized For Over A Month
What was supposed to be an easy treatment of blood clots turned into a nightmare for one woman after doctors implanted an IVC filter. The filter migrated and settled in her body, causing the need for the device to be removed. She spent two days in the hospital and another forty days recovering in an in-patient rehab facility before working through two more months of our-patient therapy. A year later our client still faces health problems and pain.

Woman Forced To Undergo Multiple Surgeries After Car Pulls Out In Front Of Her
Our client was transported the hospital after striking a car that pulled out in front of her, causing severe fracturing, including three fractured ribs. She had to have multiple surgeries to implant plates and screws in her wrists, suffered bone fractures in each leg, and is still dealing with a serious shoulder injury that was fractured in the accident. While rounds of physical therapy have helped somewhat, our client is still dealing with multiple health issues and faces a long road to recovery.

Welcome Baby John Jr.
Congratulations to Paralegal Lisa Blackburn and her husband, John, on the birth of their son, John Paul Blackburn, Jr! Born on April 20th at 6:14am, this adorable little bundle of joy was 7lbs. 11bs and 20 1/8 inches long. We’ve seen his little “fur-friends” Albert the dog and Omega the cat with love him just as much as Mom and Dad do. Congratulations, Lisa and John!

“我的最爱建筑的学生是Ms. Myers，自从我担任教师以来，她总是让我 Discovery of New “Boutique” Drug for Severe Pulmonary Embolism

Lately, a drug called Edoxate has been showing promise as a new treatment for severe pulmonary embolism, a condition that occurs when blood clots become trapped in the lungs. Patients with severe pulmonary embolism often require life-saving medical procedures to remove the blockages.

IVC Filters Causing Serious Damage To Heart, Lungs

Retractable IVC ( Inferior Vena Cava) filters are small spider-like devices built to catch and dissolve blood clots. They are implanted into the vena cava in patients who are at high risk of pulmonary embolism but cannot take blood thinners. The filter works by trapping or filtering blood clots before they travel to vital organs such as the heart or the lungs and cause serious, even life-threatening injuries. Retractable IVD filters are designed for short-term use and once a patient’s risk for a pulmonary embolism has passed, the device should be promptly removed. Unfortunately, a greater than expected number of patients suffer adverse events associated with these devices. Two of the most serious complications occur when the filter comes loose or breaks apart. The device and/or the blood clots it was trapping may be carried to the heart or lungs causing blockage or perforation, where the IVC filter punctures and causes serious damage to the heart, lungs or vena cava.

The device contains struts that expand inside the vein to prevent blood clots from entering the heart, lungs or brain. However, reports indicate that filters have a design defect that can cause them to break apart and migrate through the body. Lawsuits have been filed against manufacturers of IVC filters claiming that the devices are defective and that manufacturers intentionally decided not to disclose the dangers to the public. Who may have a lawsuit? Anyone who is experiencing complications after having a small device implanted into their vein to treat blood clots. How do I know if my problem was caused by an IVC filter?
